President's Annual Report

I would like to begin my report by thanking all the members who have been working hard for the society be it as exhibitors, stewards, liaison officers, milk testers, or committee members. Your hours preparing goats/trophies/signs/paperwork, and fulfilling your rolls doesn't go un-noticed. Our branch is growing each month with new applications being approved so the promotion of dairy goats is working. Also it is wonderful to have some of the new members getting involved with showing and assisting with promotional and events.

Over the past year we have had fairly consistent numbers of entries at shows which are greater than preceding years indicating a resurgence in exhibitors interest and dedication. I would like to reinforce the importance of vigilance by the chief stewards when engaging a judge, making sure that they have a current working with children clearance as there has been an issue with late renewals this year. Judges and volunteers please check your cards for the expiry date and update when needed.

It is wonderful that Sandra Stewart was willing to take over the website when Scott moved interstate. After some teething issues Sandra is getting on top of the work to bring the site up to date.

Sam McKay has been very vigilant with the Facebook page which has over 200 members now. This page was originally for advertising but has bloomed into a page for promoting events and sharing ideas and asking for information on goat care. Please remember it is not a venue to vent negative comments and bring the Society into disrepute.

In closing I would like to express how humbled I am with the recent expressions of support and encouragement that I have received, and being nominated as the Branch Leader once again. I will endeavour to fill the position of President dealing with issues transparently and honestly.

Cheers Tricia

Federal Council 2018

The Tasmanian Branch hosted the Federal Council Meeting this year in Hobart, at Rydges Hotel which was an historic group of buildings that were the “Deaf and Dumb School” and was converted into very comfortable rooms. The food was very tasty, and the staff were very obliging.

Graeme Hunter, Glenys Rogers and myself represented the Queensland Committee and Irene Hanmer was present also.

Unfortunately, the other elected Qld Directors were not able to attend.

Much debate took place over the various motions and the results will be published in the AGW in the near future, but I can confirm that the motion to remove 11f was lost and that regulation still stands. This means that stock can only be registered with one society and not hold dual registration with another entity.

At the dinner on Saturday night, the various presentations included the 25-year membership badge for Raewyn Bruce, which will be presented to her at our AGM.

Another long-term membership badge was given to Jane and Keith Hewlett who have been members for 55 years now. Jane is a past Federal President and still to this day is raising funds for the Tasmanian Branch selling soap. That is true dedication to the society.

× L Morley advised that the letter of thanks she received from the committee on the work she had done with the RNA was taken like a slap in the face not because of the wording but of the fact she was also informed that I Millett would take over this roll in 2018 and she had not been asked to continue in this role. The President explained that the committee was not aware she was still interested and if had been aware would have let her carry on with that role as previously she had done an excellent job.

DROUGHT FEEDING OF GOATS Information taken from Agfact A7.5.3

The effects of drought on sheep and goats enterprises using pasture are similar, but it is only rarely that conditions deteriorate to the stage where no grazing is available. Most commonly, goats need a ration to supplement limited grazing. Feed supply is critically when dry pasture is short [less than 2cm], and when less than one tonne per hectare of dry matter is available. Under such conditions goats lose bodyweight and condition, and may exhibit “blacklips” from grazing at soil level.

On properties where there are scrub and other browse species, the effect of the drought on goats and stocking rates occurs much later, and management decisions are more difficult. It is advisable to monitor your goat’s bodyweight and condition score.

YOU MUST PREPARE FOR DROUGHT

For drought strategies to be successful, they need to be flexible. They need to be capable of being implemented at short notice and varied according to the severity and duration of the drought. You can choose some or all of the following options.

You can:

1. Sell all your stock;
2. Cull and sell some stock;
3. Find agistment for your stock;
4. Start feeding the stock on your property.

Before deciding what to do, calculate your costs and returns. A combination of strategies could be your best option.

After carefully costing the economics of a feeding program and deciding to take the drought feeding option, you must then decide on what level of feeding is required. There are three basic levels of feeding – supplementary, survival and production.

SUPPLEMENTARY FEEDING is when goats are fed to overcome a deficiency in the fodder that is already available to them. An example would be where goats receive a supplement of lupins when grazing a dry grass stand to overcome a protein deficiency in their diet.

SURVIVAL FEEDING is when a minimum amount is fed with little or no other paddock feed available until the drought breaks. While feeding levels are not fully established in goats, extrapolation from sheep research is a simple exercise that allows costing of a full programme.

PRODUCTION FEEDING during drought can be profitable and two avenues worth exploring are:

A] LOT FEEDING. Kids and adults in poor condition have little value during drought, but well finished stock of slaughter weight should realise higher prices. If appropriate facilities are available, lot feeding may be an alternative way to reduce numbers, grazing pressure and total feeding costs.

When calculating the profitability of lot feeding, compare the total feeding cost with estimated improvement in animal value on a live basis

My apologies for only a few show photos in this issue.

Very few were sent to me. I have managed to chase up a few but not in time to be able to
